* This chart follows the dating method found in both Kings and Chronicles: For Israel, accession to the throne is marked by a year within the reign of a king of Judah. Parentheses – e.g. 21 (22) – indicate non-accession year dating (year of accession is counted in the totals of both the predecessor and the new king). The actual number of years in a reign can be determined by subtracting 1 from the number given (22 - 1 = 21 actual years).

The verses cited in 1-2 Kings do not include the initial mention of a ruler when it occurs in reference to the death of his father (e.g. Nadab in 1 Kings 14:20).
